Directors Statement

Matthew J. Roch is excited to tell the story of a bond that very few people in this world are lucky enough to experience. It's about a friendship that is formed from a very young age and through distance and time this friendship/bond only becomes stronger, no matter the distance between them.

Synopsis

When two friends from opposite sides of the tracks form an unbreakable bond, their friendship is pushed to the limits to see exactly how strong their bond really is.

Plot

When Timothy Walker tries to create a better lifestyle for he and his family, he ends up getting in too deep with the wrong people, with no way out.

Main Characters

Protagonist- Timothy Walker

Antagonist- Johnny Cattaneo

Mob Boss- The Voice

Head assassin/ love interest- Lady G.

Cinematography

Well lit with many shadows and a grainy feel similar to The Departed

Color Palette

The happier days will use much brighter colors, while the depressing times are a more vague gray scale.

Locations

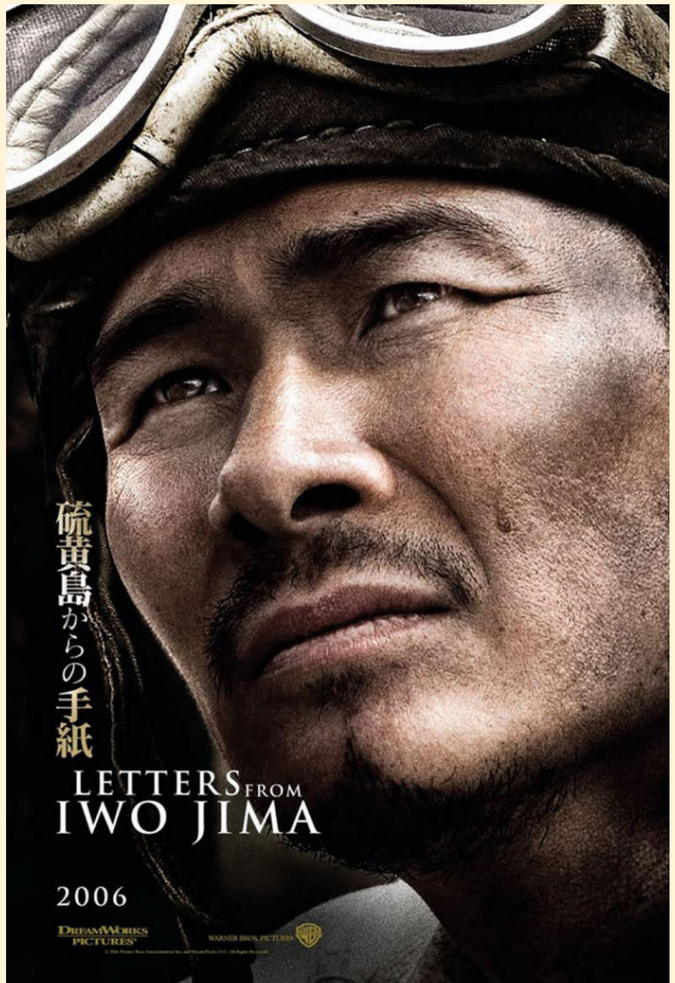

Our rural areas will be surrounded by forests while the outskirts of the city will be more towards the suburban side.

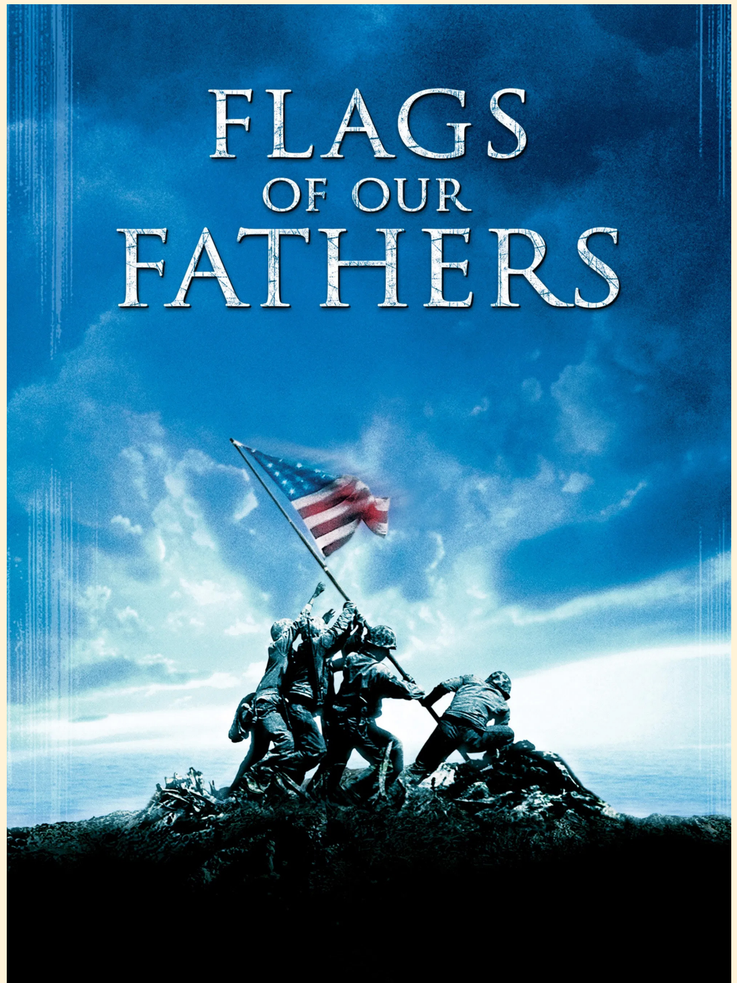

Editing

This is going to be one story from the start that gets split down the middle and turned into two stories, then gets sown back up into one story in the end.
